VELUNATRIXES / STUDIO CONDITIONS

A note on use

These notes concern the public Velunatrixes presentation and its interactive studies. They distinguish looking at a concept from commissioning a finished object or a studio service.

01 Studies, not specifications

Colours, surface treatments and compositions communicate a creative direction. Screen rendering and concept descriptions are not production specifications or guarantees of a physical material.

02 No commission at a click

The preview form does not accept an order, take payment or reserve studio capacity. A project scope and commercial terms would need a separate agreement.

03 Keep a brief confidential

Use only your own authorised contact details. The public form is not an appropriate channel for unpublished client assets, confidential drawings or access credentials.

04 Respect the work

You may keep a copy for personal reference and link to the original page. A visit does not grant a licence to resell the studies or present the studio's identity as your own.

05 Share the room fairly

Please avoid disruptive automation, repeated unsolicited submissions and attempts to access non-public systems. Ordinary browsing and personal reference are welcome.

06 An ongoing collection

The selection of studies and the preview interface may change as the concept develops. Refer to the current page before relying on a description in a proposal.

Velunatrixes presents an ongoing study. This website is not a storefront and does not conclude a paid commission.
